Session Etiquette

- Please arrive in good time for all sessions.
If you are presenting, arrive at least 5 minutes in advance, and if you have a digital presentation please upload it in the coffee or lunch break before your session. The session helper will assist you.
Non-presenters should also aim to arrive a couple of minutes early, so sessions can start on time and the first speaker can talk without being interrupted. Please don't move between sessions; each session has been designed to work as a whole, and moving is disruptive.
- Keep to time: whether presenting or asking questions, be mindful of the timetable. All panel papers should be 18-20 minutes long, and all workshops must not run over. We will keep rigidly to the timetable – but there is plenty of opportunity for discussions outside of the sessions.
- Workshops, performances, panels and plenary sessions will all be organised slightly differently. Be guided by the facilitator or chair, and ask if anything is unclear.
